His friends at Chabad House meant the world to him.

“ I was very much saddened to learn about Norman's passing. We were cousins, as my mother and his were sisters. We were born in St. Louis, but my parents moved to Florida when I was one year old. I remember we took a family road trip to St. Louis around 1960, which is when we met him and his parents Morris and Molly Frank, and his sister Myra. Norman took us to a Chabad Shabbos service--he was quite "into" Chabad Chassidus, despite being a teenager at the time, and apparently remained so throughout his life. Condolences from my wife and myself to the surviving family members.

“ Good afternoon. I am a second or third cousin of Norman's. I was raised in St. Louis and remember Norman and his family very well. We were related as our grandmothers were sisters. I want to wish you my condolences and hope you our comforted by your fond memories of Norman.

“ Norman was my good friend for more than sixty years. I will always miss him, but, like everyone who knew him, I have a lifetime of “Norman!” stories to remember him by.

“ I remember Norman when he was in law school and living in the Waldo area. Norman and I spent years working on cars together (as a hobby). He was like a fixture at our house. He had a fascination and love for the Corvair but he was adept at working on pretty much any car. Yes, he was opinionated, but that's what made Norman, Norman.

“ Twinkling eyes and his soft demeanor an interest in others or some thing I will always remember. His family's devotion to him throughout some hard times really have shown a great example for all of us. May he rest peacefully and the family be comforted-

“ Norm was good man. We had some spirited debates as we ate some breakfast at TLC and he was a good teacher and kind man. You will be missed.

“ I would remember the bantering with Norman after Shul at Chabad House in the 'good ol' days'.... I do miss those times... the world is less without him - despite our disagreements at times.... Joe Pfefer

“ The Reiz family and his Chabad friends miss Norman. We will remember his gentle nature and sweet smile. We miss his company around the Shabbat table. I remember the sparkle in his eyes when he celebrated Chanuka with his grand daughter and daughter last year. May you always have good memories. Fondly Pam and David Reiz
